A question was asked on whether things like Bible study were allowed. Bible study is fine. Church services should probably be avoided though. (No candles can be used regardless.) Any Bible study or faith discussion needs to be approved by the residents. It also needs to be open to all residents.

A question was raised about whether a 12 step group would be liable if one of the members ended up taking their life. (This should be brought up to the manager or HSC.) There likely isn't liability since group members aren't trained mental health professionals.
